I think the practice works as hardship. Vacancy intended for being filled up by Competition are determined under a calculation of probabilities - as in the Dept I presume, & the officer must have nothing to do with actual hosts till the vacancy filled up - When one is on a post the hard & fast Confirmation of his one. Practice in regard to confirming acting Assistant Commissioners.

9 On 31st May 1907, His Highness observed that there was an error of judgment on the part of Government in not holding up the appointments to vacancies that occurred in the Assistant Commissioners' grade, so that the formal nominations could be made after the results of the Civil Service Examination were announced.

10 The Civil Service Rules of 1907 were accordingly amended (Vide Rule IX) and a Press Communique was also issued in June 1907 wherein it was stated "Now that the new Rules come into operation, no appointments by special selection will hereafter be announced except as provided in Rule IX (1), that is, shortly after the results of the competitive examination have been published, all postings that may be necessary in the intervals, in the interests of the public service, being of a temporary and provisional character."

11 The Civil Service Rules of 1913 which superseded those of 1907 require (Rule VII (1)) that vacancies should be filled up soon after the results of each examination are known or at other appointed intervals. No such intervals have been prescribed.

12 Hence the long standing practice of confirming acting Assistant Commissioners only after the results of the Civil Service Examination are published.

I have the nonor to inform Government that Mr.H. Vyasa Rao Acting Assistant Commissioner, Revenue Survey, passed the Civil Examination Part II of the Local Service Examinations, held in May last. He has now qualified himself completely by passing all the tests prescribed for Assistant Commissioners.
